Turning your home into an elegant estate

Talking with Larry Haveman, president of AAA Cast Stone, you get the impression that he grew up with his destiny "cast in stone". As a young boy in Michigan, the son of a carpenter, Sunday drives were filled with his Dad proudly pointing out house after house he'd built in the surrounding neighborhoods, instilling Larry with the desire to have a hand in the beautiful buildings of the neighborhood where he grew up. Holding a contractor's license in Michigan, his dream has become a reality here in Florida! His company, AAA Cast Stone, specializes in transforming a home into an elegant estate, providing home owners with customized and creative cast stone additions that make a unique and personal statement. As Haveman likes to say, "We put the jewelry on your home." Graced with magnificent columns, dramatic balustrades, stylish window and door molding, fireplaces, and outdoor kitchens, AAA Cast Stone creates homes and patios that offer hours of enjoyment as well as memorable outdoor dining experiences with friends and family. Whether your home is under construction or in need of sweeping improvements you should consider how cast stone can take your home from having "lots of potential" to absolutely striking.

AAA Cast Stone has received many compliments on a particular home they recently finished which can be seen on the front cover and in these photos. From the homeowner to the builder to the architectural firm's project manager they all agree that this is one company that was a pleasure to work with. First, the owner of this beautiful home, Trish Loughery, said AAA Cast Stone, Inc. did a wonderful job in creating an authentic Italian Seaside Villa look. Trish also said of Haveman, "He was very easy to work with, worked quickly with his installers, and he was extremely professional." Jerry Glaser, owner of Glaser Homes, Inc., who built the Loughery's home, said of Haveman and his company, "The quality of the cast stone and the installation was extremely well done", and he further commented, "It's hard to find cast stone companies that can match precisely the color and the texture of all the stone. But AAA Cast Stone does it to perfection." The compliments didn't end there. When asked about how it was to work with Haveman and his son Bryan, Michael Willis, project manager for Cooper Johnson Smith Architects, Inc., had this to say, "It was fantastic working with AAA Cast Stone! I was mostly in contact with Bryan who was great to work with…what a smooth process it was working with this company. This is truly what makes AAA Cast Stone stand apart from other cast stone companies!"

Haveman explains that he is committed to each and every job, whether it is residential or commercial. "We strive for excellence, constantly updating our processes and looking for innovations" explains Haveman adding, "We fashion beautiful architectural cast stone accents for the interior and exterior of the home and strive to create just what the customer had envisioned by working very closely with them. With the popularity of Mediterranean style of homes in today's market, more and more people are incorporating those influences into their overall décor."

An excellent replacement for cut limestone, travertine or marble, which would be higher priced, cast stone is manmade from natural materials simulating real stone. Haveman says, "We have recently offered to our customers a new foam product that matches our stone perfectly. Some projects have specified light weight Styrofoam that looks like real stone, and so now we are able to do a complete job that matches.

"Just as blueprints for each house can be uniquely different so can these special cast stone accents" says Haveman. He continues to state, "We have an in-house mold shop and CAD designer and everything is done right here. We have meticulous follow through coming from our dedicated staff of designers and installers, which is the key to our success.
